The Challenge

Today start-ups face difficulties reaching clinical experts, KOLs and other health-related stakeholders to collect feedback on their innovative technology or service. Clinical experts have limited time and are hard to reach, but lack of feedback on the technology's relevance and feasibility may decrease the start-up's chance to attract investors.

The Solution

The validATE! team is your single point of contact to a network of clinical experts!

Fast interaction with clinical experts

Access to EU network of subject matter
experts and coaches

Independent report supporting your investor pitch

The Benefits

1

Find your clinical expert or other subject matter expert fast and collect feedback on your product or service. From unmet needs to clinical validation study plan and conduct.

2

The validATE! team will support you in preparing a pitch to your expert group.

3

Receive an independent report reflecting clinical insights which can support your next discussion with investors.
